

Boulder's Regenerative Ecosystem

We've created this map to demonstrate and celebrate the rich tapestry of projects and groups working towards regenerative change in our community.

This is only a taste — some of the most visible and approachable 'nodes' in our ecosystem. Use this to start exploring, but know that there's much more to discover.

See the full map »

See more nodes and connections, more information on each node, and read about our process here.

<https://climatique.earth/ecosystem>

About the Map

How to use this map, and the index:

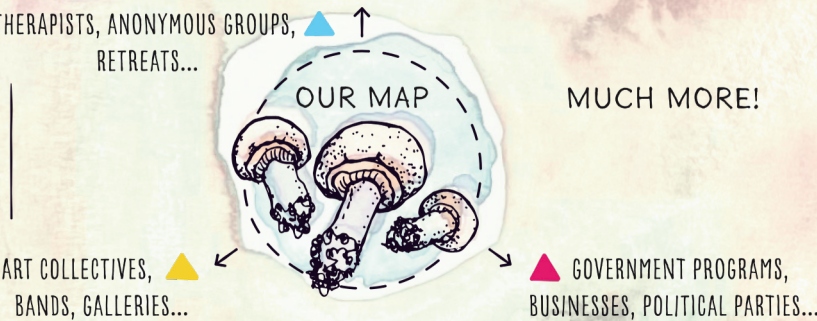

Take your time exploring the mycelium! Scan the QR code to see the digital version of the map, with links to each organization.

In the index, italics are used for a group’s full name, bold for a category, and a dagger † for an event. Some nodes are listed more than once in the index to show multiple associations.

How, and why, we made this map:

This map is the culmination of years of experience with Boulder’s regenerative undercurrent. It was not the product of rigorous research; it arose from conversations between Climatique, Woven Web and the many leaders and knowledge bearers in and around our community. We often wished we had a directory to hand people who were new to the city, or new to thinking about the polycrisis.

What resulted is our distillation of the most approachable organizations, events, projects and local spots we know of. Each serves a critical function in the transforming our inner selves, the culture we’re embedded in, and the systems we rely on to feed, house, clothe, and organize us. This lens comes from an impressive map by the group Second Renaissance, by whom we were inspired.

We’ve tried to show the deep intersectionality of these nodes, but nonetheless some could easily be placed elsewhere on the map. For the most part, it doesnot include smaller groups, businesses, nor any nonprofit that doesn’t have easy ways to get involved. It emerged naturally, so like all natural things, it is imperfect and incomplete...

About the “Hubs”

These orgs support other groups and projects. They often engage in curation (with directories and calendars like Boulder.earth and Cool Boulder), or with their own maps (like the ambitious mapping project from Boulder Climate Justice Hive.) Don’t confuse their depiction as a tree to mean these are “umbrella organizations;” rather, like the roots and trunk of a tree, these organizations nourish and uplift other groups in the ecosystem.

Regen. Ecosystem Index

Wellness

Mindfulness & Spirituality
Boulder Eco-Dharma Boundless
in Motion Sangha Green Faith
Boulder Universalist Unitarian
Church Naropa University

Movement
Running and Cycling groups
Weekly cruiser rides
Mi Chantli

Healing Groups
WomenandMen’s Groups
SPAN | Safehouse Progressive Alliance for Nonviolence

Community

Community Gatherings
Sister Carmen
Climatique
Weekly dinners†
Women and Men’s Groups

Event Spaces
Trident Cafe
Language exchange nights†
The Riverside
Junkyard Social Club

Co-working and Co-living
Boulder Housing Coalition
Regen Hub

Learning

Learning Spaces
Boulder Public Library
Folk Farm School
Maker spaces
Tinkermill BLDG 61

Climatique weekly dinners†
Trident language exchange nights†
Community-led Emergency
Preparedness Training

Education Programs
INVT Program
CU Boulder Environmental Center
Naropa University

CU Clubs
CNAIS | Center for Native American and Indigenous Studies

Arts & Culture

Circular Economy
Nude Foods
Boulder U-Fix-it
Clinic Community
Cycles Art Parts

Boulder Eco-Cycle
Resource Central
CHaRM | Center for Hard to Recycle Materials

Indigenous Culture
Right Relationship Boulder
Ch’il Indigenous Foods
HAFN | Harvest of All First Nations
Corn Festival†

Music and Performance
Motus Theater
Roots Music Project
KGNU Radio Shows
Radio 1190

eTown Hall
Writer’s Block
Boulder Poetry Scene
Visual Art
Stone Cottage Studios
NoBo Arts District

Environment & Ecology

Food Systems
Boulder Food Rescue
MASA Seed Foundation
DAR | DrylandsAgroecology Research
Elk Run Farm

Growing Gardens
Boulder Farmer’s Markets
High Plains Permaculture
MASA Seed Foundation
High Plains Permaculture

Food Not Bombs Boulder
Dharma’s Garden

Climate Solutions
PLAY Boulder Foundation Tree
Tender Program People and Pollinators ActionProgram 350
Colorado

Social Justice & Policy

Justice Advocacy
BoulderDSA | Democratic Socialists of America
Rocky Mountain Peace and Justice Center

Immigrant Rights Groups
CIRC | *Colorado Immigrant Rights
Coalition*
CoRRN | Colorado Rapid Response Network
El Centro Amistad

Racial Justice Groups
NAACP Boulder | National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
SURJ | Showing Up for Racial Justice

Mutual Aid
SAFE Boulder | SafeAccessFor Everyone
Weekly distributions†
Food Not Bombs Boulder
Weekly distributions†
Boulder Food Rescue

Climate Justice
350 Colorado
Climate Justice Collaborative